JURISDICTION AND VENUE

15. This action arises out of Doe Defendants' violation of the Federal Computer Fraud and Abuse Act (18 U.S.C. § 1030), CAN-SPAM Act (15 U.S.C. § 7704), Electronic Communications Privacy Act (18 U.S.C. § 2701) and the Lanham Act (15 U.S.C. § 1125). Therefore, the Court has subject matter jurisdiction of this action based on 28 U.S.C. § 1331. This is also an action for trespass to chattels, unjust enrichment and conversion. Accordingly, this Court has subject matter jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1367.

16. Upon information and belief, Doe Defendants maintain computers and Internet websites and engage in other conduct availing themselves of the privilege of conducting business in Virginia, have directed acts complained of herein toward Virginia, have utilized instrumentalities located in Virginia to carry out the acts complained of herein. In particular, Doe Defendants have maintained 273 “.com” domains, referred to herein as the Harmful Botnet Domains, specifically registered with Verisign in Virginia. Through the Harmful Botnet Domains, Doe Defendants are causing harm to Microsoft, its customers and the public. The 273 Domains are used by Doe Defendants to control the communications of a network of compromised user computers, called a “botnet,” which is misused by Doe Defendants to cause harm to Microsoft, its customers and the public. The following represents the relationship of the 273 .com domains registered in the Eastern District of Virginia to the “botnet.”

17. Doe Defendants have also directed actions at Virginia, including specifically the Eastern District of Virginia, by directing malicious computer code at the computers of individual users located in Virginia and the Eastern District of Virginia specifically, infecting those user computers with the malicious code and thereby making the user computers part of the “botnet,” which is used to injure Microsoft, its customers and the public. The following depicts the geographical location of user computers in Virginia to which Doe Defendants are known to have directed malicious code, causing them to become infected and part of the botnet:

18. Doe Defendants have undertaken the foregoing acts with knowledge that such acts would cause harm through the .com domains located in Virginia and through user computers located in Virginia, thereby injuring Microsoft, its customers and others both in Virginia and elsewhere in the United States. Therefore, this Court has personal jurisdiction over Doe Defendants.

19. Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b), venue is proper in this judicial district. A substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to Microsoft's claims, together with a substantial part of the property that is the subject of Microsoft's claims, are situated in this judicial district. Venue is proper in this judicial district under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b) because a domain name is deemed to have its situs in the judicial district in which the domain name registry that registered or assigned the domain name is located. Verisign is the domain name registry for the Harmful Botnet Domains and is located in this district. Venue is proper in this judicial district under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(c) because the Doe Defendants are subject to personal jurisdiction in this judicial district.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Microsoft's Software, Services And Reputation

20. Microsoft is a provider of the Windows® operating system, Hotmail® e-mail services and a variety of other software and services. Microsoft has invested substantial resources in developing high-quality products and services. Microsoft has registered trademarks representing the quality of its products and services and its brand, including the Windows® and Hotmail® marks.

Computer "Botnets"

21. In general, a "botnet" is a collection of individual computers, each running software that allows communication among those computers and allows centralized or decentralized communication with other computers providing control instructions. The individual computers in a botnet often belong to individual users who have unknowingly downloaded or been infected by the software that makes the computer part of the botnet. For example, a user's computer may become part of a botnet when the user inadvertently interacts with a malicious website advertisement, clicks on a malicious email attachment or downloads fraudulent software. In each such instance, software code is downloaded or executed on the user's computer, causing that computer to become part of the botnet, capable of sending and receiving communications, code and instructions to or from other botnet computers.

22. Some botnet computers are wholly within the control of the botnet creator. These may have specialized functions, such as sending control instructions. These may be referred to as "command and control" computers.

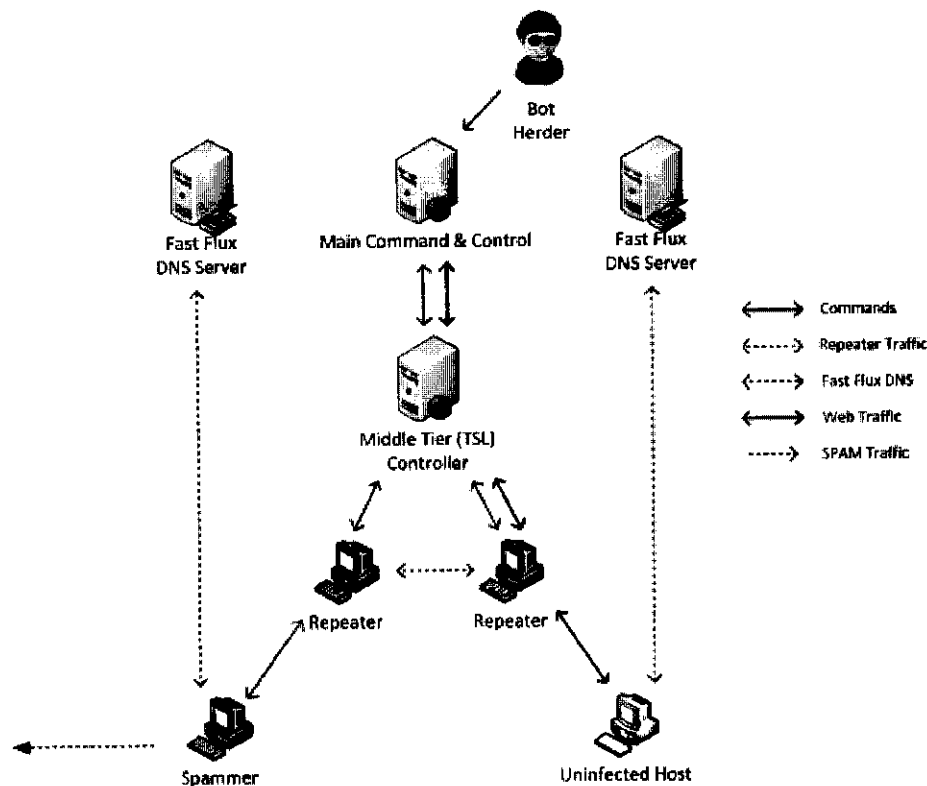

23. Botnets are often created and controlled by sophisticated criminal organizations and are used to carry out misconduct that harms others' rights. For example, a computer in a botnet may be used to anonymously send unsolicited, bulk email without the knowledge or consent of the individual user who owns the compromised computer. Similarly, a botnet computer may be used to deliver further malicious software that infects other computers, making them part of the botnet as well. A botnet computer may also be used to carry out fraud, computer intrusions or other misconduct. A botnet computer may also be used simply to “proxy” or relay Internet communications originating from other computers, in order to obscure and conceal the true source of those communications.

The “Waledac” Botnet: Overall Architecture

24. Microsoft brings this action to stop Doe Defendants from harming Microsoft and its customers through the malicious use of the Harmful Botnet Domains which are central to a botnet known as the “Waledac” botnet. A high-level depiction of the relationship between the 273 Harmful Botnet Domains and the Waledac Botnet is set forth at Paragraph 16 above.

25. The Waledac Botnet has a multi-tiered architecture, which can be represented as follows:

26. The lowest “Spammer Node” tier in this architecture is made up of infected user computers that have been determined to be behind firewalls or otherwise not directly accessible from the Internet. The botnet software placed on these infected computers sends, without the user’s knowledge or permission, unsolicited bulk email (often known as “spam”). This spam email may contain code that infects further computers adding them to the botnet or may serve other purposes, such as inviting users to enter financial or other valuable personal information. The botnet selects user computers behind firewalls to act as the “Spammer Nodes” because such computers are more difficult to monitor or to reach remotely to remediate the problem. The sending of spam email is a major component of the Waledac Botnet’s functionality. Upon information and belief, the Waledac Botnet operators sell botnet capacity as a service, including the capability of sending spam email to perpetuate fraud, to collect financial and personal data and to distribute harmful or fraudulent software, including fake antivirus or “scareware” programs.

27. The next highest tier in the architecture, the “Repeater Node” tier, is made up of infected computers that are directly accessible from the Internet. These computers may serve several different purposes, depending on the instructions sent by the botnet’s command and control computers. First, they may act as proxies relaying communications among different botnet computers, both to distribute the processing burden and to obfuscate the true source of the communications. Second, these computers may act as HTTP and SOCKS 5 servers capable of delivering HTTP and SOCKS 5 commands and responses, when receiving requests from other botnet computers. These computers act as HTTP and SOCKS 5 proxies for both infected computers already part of the botnet as well as uninfected computers that are following a URL received in a spam email message. Third, these computers may act as “DNS servers.” In general, a DNS server is a computer that translates human readable hostnames or domain names (such as xinnet.com) to their corresponding binary identifier, called an IP address (such as 123.100.5.81).

28. The next highest tier in the architecture, the “TSL Servers,” is the first tier that is controlled directly by the operators of the Waledac Botnet and the first tier that is not made up of infected computers. The TSL Servers are “reverse proxy servers.” In general, reverse proxy servers receive in-bound communications and then pass those on to additional servers. In the Waledac Botnet, the TSL Servers receive in-bound communications from the Repeater Nodes and then pass them to other servers behind the TSL Servers. The purpose of TSL Servers is to obfuscate details about the servers behind them, to prevent direct communications with those servers and evade investigation of these portions of the botnet.

29. At the highest level, behind the TSL Servers, there are one or more command and control servers, referred to as the “Main Command & Control” servers. Upon information and belief, these servers are also controlled directly by the operators of the Waledac Botnet and not made up of infected computers. The Main Command & Control servers are responsible for coordinating the Waledac Botnet on the whole and providing the most fundamental definitions, commands and instructions that determine how infected computers will operate and how different botnet components will interact with each other.

The Waledac Botnet: Fast Flux DNS Server and The Harmful Botnet Domains

30. The Waledac Botnet uses a method called “fast flux” hosting, which is a technique used by botnets to hide the location of their constituent computers by constantly changing the addressing of the domain names that are associated with the command and control and infrastructure components that make up the botnet. The purpose and result of fast flux hosting is that discovery, observation and counter-measures are made more difficult because the addressing of the constituent compromised computers is constantly changing.

31. The Waledac Botnet includes a component called the “Fast Flux DNS Server.” This component is a server that coordinates the domain name infrastructure associated with the Repeater Nodes thereby using a fast flux hosting technique to obfuscate the source, location, owner and other attributes of those computers. The Fast Flux DNS Server accomplishes this by regularly updating the root name servers for the various fast flux domains used by the Waledac Botnet. In particular, the Fast Flux DNS Server accesses a web portal to one of the domains’ registrars updating the root name servers at the registrars. To hide the location of the Fast Flux DNS Server from the registrars, all access of the server to the registrar’s web portal is proxied through Repeater Node computers so there is not direct communication between the Fast Flux DNS Server and the registrar. The botnet’s Fast Flux DNS Server can instruct a subset of the Repeater Nodes to act as DNS servers while the Fast Flux DNS Server reconfigures the root DNS servers to point to the configured nodes. As a result, a query by a computer to one of the Waledac domain names results in one of the Repeater nodes responding with the IP address of the queried computer or another Repeater Node computer, thereby providing the ability to continuously obscure the attributes of these Waledac domains.

32. Each of the Harmful Botnet Domains set forth in Appendix A is one of the foregoing described fast flux Waledac domains, representing a component in the command and control of the botnet. Upon information and belief, each of the Harmful Botnet Domains set forth in Appendix A has no purpose other than the support and propagation of the Waledac Botnet and furtherance of malicious activity through the Waledac Botnet.

33. The computers that are part of the Waledac Botnet can send “node table updates” to other computers in the botnet. These node table updates contain lists of other known Repeater Nodes, to enable and support continued communication between all of these computers. The communication from the Spammer Node tier to the Repeater Node tier and communication between Repeater Nodes depends on the accuracy of the node tables stored at each computer and depends on the accuracy of node table updates. If a node table is empty or contains invalid entries, a given botnet computer uses one of the Harmful Botnet Domains, which is hardcoded in the botnet software residing on the computer, to query the botnet for an update to the node table. Thus, the Harmful Botnet Domains continuously control the ability of the computers that make up the Waledac Botnet to communicate with each other and to grow the botnet.

Injury Caused By The Waledac Botnet To Microsoft And Its Customers

34. In addition to supporting Waledac Botnet’s infrastructure, as described above, the Harmful Botnet Domains may further be used in at least the following way. Links to those domains may be included in unsolicited, bulk email sent out by Spammer Node computers with the purpose of spreading the botnet. For example, the Spammer Node computers have been observed to send emails indicating to the victim recipients that a news story has broken or that a loved one has sent the victim an e-card. The emails point to one of the Harmful Botnet Domains, which represents a Repeater Node computer. When the victim opens the link sent to them, in order to retrieve the story or e-card, the victim is interacting directly with the Repeater Node computer, which may deliver software that infects the victim’s computer and makes it part of the Waledac Botnet.

35. The Waledac Botnet software is maliciously introduced onto users’ computers, infecting those computers and making them part of the botnet.<sup>1</sup> These acts constitute an unauthorized intrusion into the Microsoft Windows® operating system which Microsoft licenses to the end users. In particular, the Waledac Botnet specifically targets the Windows® operating system. For example, the Waledac Botnet writes particular entries to the registry of the Windows® operating system, without the consent of Microsoft or its customers, including commands that tell the computer which commands to execute, commands that facilitate communication between botnet computers, commands which harvest personal email addresses from the computer, commands that tell the computer how to receive instructions from the botnet operator and data identifying the computer within the botnet. The spread of the Waledac Botnet in this way is not related to any vulnerability in Microsoft's systems, but is instead achieved by misleading unwitting users into taking steps that result in the infection of their machines.

36. This Waledac Botnet's intrusion into Microsoft's Windows® operating system is without the authority of Microsoft and exceeds any authority granted by Microsoft to any third party, including the end-user and the operators of the Waledac Botnet.

37. The Waledac Botnet harms Microsoft's customers by misusing the Windows® operating system on those users' infected computers. The Waledac Botnet causes harm to Microsoft's customers by, among other things, causing customers' computers to:

- a. install and run software without the customers' knowledge or consent, including software to support the botnet infrastructure, software that causes the computer to act as an HTTP Proxy, an HTTP Server, a DNS Server, a SOCKS5 Proxy, software that acts as an SMTP email engine, software enabling the computer to initiate a DDoS attack, and an HTTP P2P Engine;
- b. install and run fake anti-virus software and other similar software;
- c. have deteriorated performance due to the running of unauthorized software;
- d. install and run software without the customers' knowledge and consent

which collects personal information, including personal email address information of the customers and others;

- e. send spam email to others, including users of Microsoft's Hotmail email account holders and users of Microsoft's Outlook email program;
- f. send spam email falsely appearing to originate from Microsoft's Hotmail email service;
- g. transmit collected personal information, including personal email address information to the Waledac Botnet Main Command & Control Server and whether or not such email addresses successfully accepted unsolicited email and which unsolicited email template was accepted by such email addresses.

38. The unauthorized access of and intrusion into Microsoft's Windows® operating system and Microsoft's customers' computers results in consumer confusion. Microsoft's customers have notified Microsoft of damage caused by the Waledac Botnet and the Harmful Botnet Domains. Such customers have been confused and have been incorrectly led to believe that Microsoft was the source of damage and therefore attributed their injury to Microsoft and its products and services. Thus, the Waledac Botnet and the Harmful Botnet Domains have caused injury to Microsoft's brand, reputation and goodwill. This incorrect attribution of the effects of the Waledac Botnet and the Harmful Botnet Domains to Microsoft causes harm to Microsoft's brand and tarnishes the reputation of Microsoft's name, products and services. Microsoft has had to expend substantial resources in an attempt to assist its customers and to correct the continuing misperception that Microsoft is the source of damage caused by the Waledac Botnet and the Harmful Botnet Domains.

39. Upon information and belief, the Doe Defendants who operate the Waledac Botnet benefit from its operation and the activities described above by sending spam email which generates advertising revenue and by selling to others, for profit, the botnet's capability of sending unsolicited, bulk email and carrying out other activities on behalf of others.
